NCJW, GNO Section's Hannah G. Solomon Award Recipient 2012

MARY KELLER ZERVIGON

By Vivian Cahn & Ina Davis, 2012 HGS Co-Chairs

Mary Keller Zervigon is a woman who has been deeply involved for decades with the political and educational makeup of our city and state, and has changed the lives of others through her leadership and service. She has been steadfast in her fight to bring about change, and this determination continues to result in progress and enlightenment in our community.

"A turning point in my thinking occurred in 1954 when my eyes were opened to the Supreme Court decision that was handed down," Mary said. This refers to Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, the landmark decision of the U.S. Supreme Court that ended federally sanctioned racial segregation in public schools. Mary was just a teenager at the time. "Until then I believed all families thought like my own." In 1960, "My mother set up the school board integration headquarters in our back yard... our efforts were to keep the New Orleans schools open." Thus began a lifelong allegiance to political awareness and activism.

After Mayor "Moon" Landrieu's term ended in 1978, and while her children were still in school, Mary decided to finish college at Loyola University, and thereafter, received her Juris Doctor from the College of Law.

Mary speaks proudly of her parents Rosa and Charles Keller. She credits them for influencing her on how to live, think, and give back to the community. "They were a good team; my mother was all passion, and my father was more moderate and rational."

Mary's mother, Rosa Keller, and cousin Betty Wisdom, were also HGS honorees. As Mary said, "My mother received many awards, but the Hannah Solomon was particularly meaningful to her because of what NCJW stands for."

Mary's reach in the community is wide and strong, with involvement ranging from education to human rights to the arts. She presently serves as Chair on the Advocates for Science and Mathematics Education Board, and Xavier University Board of Trustees. Mary is also President of the Board of Liquidation, City Debt.

Mary Zervigon is open, visionary, and liberal in her thinking. She likes to constantly reassess the organizations and projects with which she is involved to make sure that they are on a successful path. When asked which project she is the most proud, Mary said, "Everything needs more, and is a work in progress."

Mary has served on many boards and committees including the following: the Newman

President's MESSAGE

A FAITH IN THE FUTURE.
A BELIEF IN ACTION.

Dear NCJW Member,

There are so many exciting things going on in NCJW – who has time for them all? In December our annual meeting was held at the new Hillel House. Thank you Hillel House for providing this meeting space. It was great to see the new building. Dan Cameron, curator of the Prospect. 2 art exhibit, was our guest speaker. He filled our heads with visions of contemporary art around New Orleans and the world. Now we all need to get out and see the exhibit before it ends. Coming in February, is a new member/newcomers event where we will hear all about the Promote the Vote program and how it affects us. Also in February, is our annual Hannah G. Solomon Award Luncheon. Our award recipient, Mary Zervigon, is a community activist in the true legacy of Hannah Solomon and well deserving of this award. Before we know it, Passover will be here. We are planning a new and different Seder for this Passover. Stay tuned to hear all about it. By the time Passover is over, it will be time for our annual fund raiser – this year the theme is April in Paris. You can take a stroll down the avenue and shop to your heart's content as well as be entertained by Parisian artists.

In the middle of all this planning, WVUE reporter Jennifer Hale and our own Fox 8 Defenders were nominated for a Sun Coast Emmy for their reporting and investigation on a consumer fraud issue. Fox 8 Defenders are not the only busy volunteers. Our ACE volunteers, our new domestic violence court program and our other service programs are all busy. All of them deserve thanks for the hard work and wonderful service that they provide. Coming in Spring is Adloyadah, Holocaust Memorial Day and Israel Independence Day – all of which receive support and volunteers from NCJW. Please give generously to our Personal Giving Campaign. All the money raised goes towards NCJW service programs. Thank you for your support of NCJW. We can't do it without your help.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Nitzkin

Philanthropic Society, Girl Scouts of Louisiana, United Nations Association, Mayor's Tax Fairness Committee, Bureau of Governmental Research, and the Urban League, among others. She is an ardent supporter of human rights organizations as well.

There are so many ways that Mary Zervigon has served our community, but you will have to join us for the Hannah G. Solomon Award Luncheon at the Westin Hotel, Canal Place on February 27th to learn more! Please do encourage your friends and family to join us as we honor Mary Zervigon with our most prestigious award in 2012.

Holiday Fun came to ACE

By Inge Elsas

Participants gathered with their family members, along with the program volunteers, the director, and friends to be led by Armand's great piano music. They sang, clapped hands, shoveled feet, yes, and danced to the generously provided music. It was a fun-filled afternoon, complete with lovely refreshments and much shared conversation.

Thanks to NCJWGNO and the JCC who made this holiday enrichment possible.

Meet and Greet for New Members

We'd like to invite new members to get to know about NCJW's programs. We'll be focusing on HERVotes and Protect the Vote, Promote the Vote, two campaigns critical to getting out the vote this year.

General Meeting and Prospect. 2

December 14, 2011, NCJW met for its annual membership general meeting. Hadassah members joined us for a great discussion with Dan Cameron, curator of Prospect. 2. We learned what NCJW is doing in the next few months and how Prospect. 2 came to be and what we can expect to see at the exhibit. Thanks Dan, for an exciting evening.

The Annual General Meeting serves to enlighten our members of the Section's ongoing and new projects, advocacy, and events. Here, Sarah Hess and Lonnie Schaffer addressed the crowd of future fundraising goals.

Guest lecturer, Dan Cameron, devoted his last night as Director of Prospect.2 New Orleans to a full house of NCJW members and sisters from Hadassah. Many thanks to Dan for bringing world class artists to NOLA, and for the amazing support that it brings to our city.

Now is the time to VOLUNTEER for NCJW's newest program:

O.P. Civil Court Protective Order Research Project

Our research will help determine how to streamline and speed up the process of getting a protective order from the Civil Courts in New Orleans.

Learn to interpret petitions and judges orders, and create an accurate record of what the outcome of each protective order case was and why. One training session is all you need to get started; the results of your research may greatly improve the system!

This is not a court watch program, but a research project that you will be able to do on your own time from the Civil Courts Records Room at Loyola Ave. and Perdido St.

The results will be supervised and calculated by the faculty and staff of the Tulane Domestic Violence Clinic and Loyola University. Join to make a difference.
